

PRESS RELEASE
26th September 2022 – London

PEI Group acquires Altman Inc. and its key asset FundFilter

- Purchase of Altman Inc.’s FundFilter analytics platform and database from its founder enables PEI Group to create an innovative new information and performance analysis tool for investors in private market strategies.
- FundFilter currently holds institutional-quality performance data for more than 8,000 investment funds managed by 2,000+ asset managers across multiple private market verticals including private equity, real estate, credit and infrastructure.
- Users of FundFilter functionality can use an array of tools to conduct fund performance comparisons, fund screening, benchmarking and cashflow forecasting/modelling.
- The data sets and analytics tools of FundFilter will become incorporated into PEI’s relevant subscriber intelligence products to enhance their already rich information sets covering funds, fund managers and investors.

London, 26th September 2022 – PEI, the leading information and networking-events provider for global private capital markets and related areas, announced today that it has acquired Altman Inc. and its key asset FundFilter.

FundFilter is a source of institutional-quality analytics for investors in private asset classes. It is an innovative, graphically-rich platform and database, tracking fund-level investment performance across multiple alternative investment strategies. Investors with access to FundFilter’s tools and data can conduct fund performance comparisons, fund screening, benchmarking and cashflow forecasting/modelling, thus supporting portfolio selection and the development of their investment strategies.

Currently FundFilter holds an expanding data set of more than 8,000 investment funds managed by 2,000+ asset managers with historical reference data extending back to 1999. Detailed financial measures are sourced exclusively from active investors and capital allocators, which enables an investor-specific perspective on the performance of private market funds that constitute the core ‘alternatives’ market.

PEI Group is a business intelligence provider and convenor of crucial professional-market networks, with a strong focus on alternative asset investment. Its Platinum subscription services are relied upon for intelligent industry reporting and analysis, data, analytics, opinion and market insight. Its brands already engage a broad range of global institutional investors and fund managers active in the private investment verticals in infrastructure, real estate, private debt, private equity, venture capital, agri-investing and alternative asset secondaries. The data and tools of FundFilter will become incorporated into PEI’s relevant subscriber intelligence products to enhance their already rich information sets covering funds, fund managers and investors.

Tim McLoughlin, CEO of PEI Group, said:

“The range and profile of capital allocators eager to engage in alternative assets is growing in every dimension: so too is the volume and variety of PEI’s subscribers, who are the main actors in these markets. The breadth, and depth of our intelligence and market coverage is always evolving. The incorporation of FundFilter’s performance metrics, fund comparison tools and portfolio planning/modelling capabilities into our product experiences will be strongly welcomed by our brand constituencies. Combining PEI’s asset class expertise and clear editorial voice with proprietary, high-quality performance data will bring a powerful and innovative new information source to these markets.”

Gavin Burke, CEO of Altman Inc. and Founder of FundFilter, commented:

“The private fund market is changing rapidly as the investor base continues to broaden. We built FundFilter to address this growing and diverse audience through developing a fresh, intuitive, and interactive experience in the analysis of funds and fund managers. PEI, with its impressive suite of related products, deep industry knowledge and growing network, is the perfect home for FundFilter. We see significant room for growth in this space and believe Tim and his team are uniquely situated to capture that.”
